ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

        The presently claimed invention provides methods for identifying single 5   nucleotide polymorphisms (SNPs) whose state segregatea with gene expression data. In an exemplary embodiment, samples from individuals are hybridized with arrays that are capable of detecting SNP states and gene expression. Methods, computer software products and systems are provided to identify the genes whose expression is affected by the states of SNPs.